ABOUT EVAN

A globetrotting army brat with a Master's degree focused in experiential education and curriculum development, Evan Michael Zislis started his career teaching social studies and language arts to 7th graders in Aspen, Colorado. He went on to manage the program departments of a variety of nonprofit organizations of the Aspen Valley, before starting his own professional practice in 2012.

Founder and Principal Consultant of Intentional Solutions, Evan helps people to simplify so they can focus on what matters most, and that is: who we love, what we do, how, and why we live — because everything else is just stuff.

His professional practice is focused on helping people in 5 areas: organization, operational systems, time & task management, content creation, and professional networking.

Using a very simple 3-step method designed to help people clear out, get organized, and design beautifully inspiring spaces, Evan works with households, businesses, teachers, and people in life transition.

Evan lives with his family in the quiet community of Carbondale, CO.

THE WORK: CLEARING THE CLUTTERED PATH TO THE LIFE YOU SEEK

“If you can organize your silverware drawer, you can organize ANYTHING!” – Evan Zislis

Clutter is a metaphor. If our spaces are cluttered, chances are – our LIVES are cluttered, too. Getting organized isn't just about tidying up, it's about clearing the cluttered path to the LIFE WE SEEK. Chronic clutter is not good for us, our relationships, our families, or our children. Over time, clutter can promote and perpetuate a wide variety of negative impacts on our health, productivity, and overall happiness, including:

- Obesity
- Depression
- Stress & Anxiety
- Substance Abuse
- Domestic Violence
- Relationship Turmoil
- Isolationism.

This work is more than just tidying up; it's about connecting the dots between our stuff and the bigger picture. I believe the intentional absence of excess creates the tangible space for abundance. Removing the excess enables us to thrive unencumbered and empowers us to help contribute to the global solution. This work is about helping people to need less, be more mindful about our consumer habits; encourage participation in second-hand economies, and pass along unneeded items to those who need them most. I help people to consider what they need, why they need it, where it comes from, how it was manufactured, and where it goes when those items are no longer needed. The difference between my practice and other organizers is that my emphasis is on conscious consumerism, environmental sustainability, social philanthropy, and a stewardship for our planet so that it can sustain human life for future generations. My work doesn't just help people to simplify and get organized – it takes the next step towards a revolution designed to save the world!

Top Rated Amazon #1 New Release

"ClutterFree Revolution does more than demystify the complexity of our stuff – it guides us through an honest conversation about what matters most." — Dr. Melva Green, psychiatrist & host from the hit TV series, Hoarders (Dr. Green generously authored the foreword to ClutterFree Revolution.)

"ClutterFree Revolution nails it! Evan inspires a new generation of conscious consumers. A must read for every household in America." — Casey Sheahan, former President & CEO of Patagonia, Inc.

"Over the past year or so I have picked up a few of the many books available about decluttering, but none of them spoke to me as this one did. Evan's advice is simple, practical, compassionate, and inspiring. It is beautifully written and really makes you think about what is important in your life and what steps you can take to improve the quality of your own life and of those around you. I know I will come back to this book again and again. I loved it." — Janne Read-Berrson (5 stars, Amazon)

"I expected constructive advice. I expected an organized program. What I didn't expect was a book with the readability of a well-written novel, with the wisdom of a philosophical treatise, with the depth and insight of a spiritual tome. This book is not just about organizing your home, simplifying your life and enhancing your space—it's literally about keeping the planet habitable for humans." — Jan Krische (5 stars, Amazon)

If you need this book, you KNOW you need it. Now is your time, and remember, it's your life – so what you choose to do (or not do) is entirely up to you. David Sedaris says, "If you're looking for sympathy, you'll find it between shit and syphilis in the dictionary." I'm not entirely sure if that's relevant or not, I just like that quote.
